CASAPRIL 27, 2005Tuesday, January 09, 2010 Central New York Pizza Festival In New York State, the average person is exposed to an unlimited amount of pizza choices. In terms of quality and type of toppings, I feel like my options are close to unlimited. I personally like a very thick crust and even love white pizza...but once in a blue moon I like to have pepperoni, old bay cheese, mushrooms, peppers, and onions. In our area (Orange County, NY) I know that we have a pizza chain, The Pizza Pantry, which specializes in thin crust pepperoni pizza. Oh how I long for those days. Recently, I learned of the Central New York Pizza Festival that is being hosted in Syracuse at the end of this month. A place like this would be a great chance to try multiple types of pizza with different toppings and crusts. I think I already know my favorite though and I have had my eye on the the pizza from the maker of the famous New York style pizza, Regina. The poster here: I have been making a fruit pizza with strawberry sauce, fresh strawberries and pineapple (including added pecans) and I would love to try this one in the big city. Have any of you ever gone to a food festival or event? How was the experience? Was it just a place to get your pizza (and maybe a sandwich)? 11 comments: Hi Kirsten, I've been to several in the past, but too long ago to remember specific details. I think the best, was the International Chuck E. Cheese's CheeseFest in Orlando. It was comparable to the CNY Pizza Fest and really inexpensive. All the kids got free pizza. Maybe Disney had something to do with it, but I think it was just timing and it was in Orlando. When I was in New Orleans a few years ago, I was at a French Market and there was a festival with different types of pies from all over the world. There were also vendors with food and samples. Pizzas were the big draw for me. For some reason I thought French Pizzas (America style) would be a
